WASHINGTON RACING DULL

HEAVY GOING KEEPS THE BETTER CLASS HORSES IN THEIR BARN.

Rosimiro Easily Outfoots Falcada and Jubilee
—Berkeley Wins from Dolly Spanker
—Grand Consolation Prospects.

Washington, D. C., November 19.—One of the kaleidoscopic changes of climate for which this part of the world is noted took place today and it was a delightful day. The pleasant, sunshiny afternoon was more potent in bringing out a crowd than was the card offered for the afternoon of racing. It was an off day in the matter of the program and it was decidedly uninviting to the lovers of the sport. The track had not dried out at post time as much as was expected and it was still very muddy. It is bound to remain in that condition for several days yet, as the course is naturally deep.

The first race resulted in a narrow victory for Firebrand, the odds-on favorite. He rushed into the lead as the barrier was sprung and led by a comfortable margin until near the end, when he commenced to tire badly and just lasted long enough to win from Eminola. The latter was second choice in the betting and was prominent throughout, finishing very gamely under a good ride.

Orfano was considered much the best in the second race by the public and would probably have won but for the bumping he received from the winner and Tenakoe. The latter, which was the medium of a plunge by his owner and his friends, was disqualified for fouling the winner and Orfano. Bobbin Around, which was given third place, ran a good race, but tired slightly near the end.

Hooray, a good horse of late, from the Aste stable, was the second favorite to win. He came away from his opponents in the stretch and won with some speed in reserve. Higginbotham ran a good race, holding second place easily throughout the running, but appeared to be a trifle short at the end. Weirsdome ran surprisingly well.

Falcada and Smoker had their public trials in the fourth race for the Grand Consolation next Saturday, but neither of them was able to even menace the winner. Rosimiro found the track to his liking and won without being fully extended. Falcada was most fancied and the best price obtainable against his chances was 3 to 5 and closed at 1 to 2. The Wilson colt had no mishaps. The track was apparently suited to him, as he appeared to run freely in it and was under a drive all through the last furlong, but never could reach the winner. Jubilee ran another good race and held third position all the way. Smoker will probably show improvement in his next race.

The mile race proved an easy task for Destroyer and his performance was comparatively as good as that of his stable mate, Right Royal, yesterday. He held a contending position from the start and was only cantering in the last quarter. Noblesse Oblige did not get away any too well, but closed up rapidly and finished a fast going second, ten lengths in front of Llanthony Boy, which barely saved third place from the badly ridden Grenadier. Withdrawals reduced the closing handicap to a three-horse race, in which Dolly Spanker was favorite. Berkeley showed the most speed and never left the result in doubt. Dolly Spanker loomed up at the head of the stretch, but finally tired. Campaigner finished a distant third and quit badly after showing a flash of early speed.

The Grand Consolation still gives considerable promise of a good race. The Squire and Falcada, which was probably not at his best today, will be the starters to make the race attractive. King Sol is also prominently mentioned. Spooner is not here for the race.

Betting is still very light.

Sol Lichtenstein has quit booking for the year, but has not left yet. He is backing them from the ground, but in a small way.

WILL TRAIN AT NEW ORLEANS.

Robert Walden will have all of the horses he will race next year at New Orleans this winter. In former years the yearlings received their earlier training at Bowling Brook Farm and were made track wise upon a half-mile track on the farm built by the late Wyndham Walden and it was on this track that Compute, Filigrane, Contester and Hanover Queen were given their first lessons in racing. The best of the yearlings are by the Meddler stallion, Chilton, which heads the Bowling Brook Stud and will not be raced at New Orleans, but saved until the opening of the metropolitan season.

HIGH PRAISE FOR ROWE.

Naturally James R. Keene thinks pretty well of Jimmy Rowe, and is credited with saying recently: "I believe I have the best trainer in the country. James Rowe's skill, patience and judgment with my horses have been remarkable, and he has made a record to be proud of. I never saw him ride, but he was a first-class jockey in his day, and that is generally a good school for a trainer. Rowe studies each horse as a schoolmaster does a pupil, noting his or her characteristics and peculiarities. He says Colin is one of the most level-headed, sensible colts he ever trained, and he ought to know."

ADVERSELY TO THE JOCKEY CLUB.

Court of Final Resort Decides in Favor of the Empire City Trotting Club.

New York, November 19.—The Court of Appeals at Albany today handed down a decision in the Empire City case affirming the order of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court directing the State Racing Commission to issue a license to the Empire City Trotting Club to hold a running meeting at Yonkers. This is a final determination of the case arising last March when James Butler applied to the commission for a license, which was denied by that body. Mr. Butler, through his counsel, James Russell Soley, then applied to the Supreme Court for a writ of mandamus directed to the Racing Commission, which was denied by Justice Mills after hearing arguments by counsel for Mr. Butler and the Commission. The court at this hearing ruled that under the law the granting of licenses rested with the State Racing Commission, they having discretionary power to grant licenses or withhold them, that power residing in them absolutely and could not be disturbed by the courts. An appeal was taken from this decision by Mr. Butler to the Appellate Division, and that body on June 14 issued a peremptory writ of mandamus directed to the State Racing Commission to issue a license to the Empire City Trotting Club, which was done, and the probable dates for the meeting were then announced. The State Racing Commission hereupon appealed the case to the Court of Appeals.

The decision today is a final adjudication of the matter, and while the full text of the decision is not obtainable tonight, it appears that the contention of the Empire City Trotting Club that the Racing Commission is compelled to issue licenses to all organizations in this state which apply to the commission for a license, after complying with all of the requirements of the law, has been sustained.

THIRTY LEADING OWNERS.

Out in California Sam Hildreth's horses won enough in the course of the last week to give him the greatest increase among owners of his total for the year and the Canadian owner, J. E. Seagram, netted the second best returns, his winnings being amassed over the eastern tracks. The two great leaders, J. R. Keene and H. P. Whitney, each added the small sum of $400, but their closest followers, the Newcastle Stable, J. L. McGinnis, B. Schreiber and R. T. Wilson, Jr., did considerably better. The standing of the thirty leading owners and their gains last week are as follows:

RETURNED JOCKEYS ALL PROSPEROUS

Jockey Fred Taral, who, with his son, arrived in this country Sunday on the same steamship bringing jockeys Gannon, Lewis, Birkenruth and T. Burns, in speaking of his season abroad, said:

"Most of the past season I was in Austria-Hungary. All in all I rode in 329 races, and at the end of the season I had eighty-five firsts and fifty-six second places to my credit. Thirds don't count over there. I rode for Baron Springer and, in addition to my races on the Austro-Hungarian tracks, also rode a number of races in Germany. My son was sick a great part of the season and only rode in sixty-two races, in four of which he won first place."

Burns, who rode in Germany, said that his employer, unofficially, was the German Kaiser. When the season was ended he had fifty-eight first places to his credit. Birkenruth has been riding in Austria and Germany for Victor Von Mautner. He won forty first places, among the races being a $25,000 event in Hamburg, which he won with Von Mautner's mare Faith. Altogether he rode in 287 races. Gannon has been riding in Russia and Poland, a part of the time being in the employ of the famous operatic singers, Jean and Edouard De Reszke. In the 125 races in which he rode, Gannon won first place forty times. He was six weeks at Warsaw, three weeks at Moscow and six weeks in St. Petersburg. Lewis, who is in the employ of Baron Oppenheim, won forty-six out of the 184 races in which he participated.

They report the European racing season just closed, to have been a most prosperous one and that they would all return again next spring.

VARYING DISPOSITIONS OF HORSES.

Good and Bad Tempered Ones the Outcome of Kind or Harsh Treatment.

In the course of a conversation at Lexington a few days ago John B. Payne asked Major Foxhall A. Daingerfield if Peter Pan was a horse of good disposition, whereupon the latter said:

"He is a horse of good temper and a willing disposition, as all horses should be and the majority would be with proper treatment. Gentleness and kindness are the first essentials in the care of a horse. A soft-voiced, considerate groom in a stable is worth much more than he is usually paid. The man who is given to speaking harshly to horses or striking or clubbing them finds no quarter at Castleton Stud. I would not have a man of that kind on the place services free. While I was living in Virginia, and before I was identified with Mr. Keene in his breeding enterprise, he bought Blue Gown and several mares in England. The vessel on which they were coming to this country was disabled and was adrift for twenty days. During that period he lost Blue Gown and some of the mares. Those saved were sent on from New York and placed at the William Kinney farm, near this city, and Mr. Keene bought Blue Mantle to mate with them. The horse came over in charge of two English grooms, and had the reputation of being a savage. It was claimed that he had killed three men. Those grooms never went about him singly. One would go into the stall first with a club and stand menacingly near the horse, holding the club ready to strike him, and, I am told, often did strike him, while the other went about the process of grooming."

"One day a stupid dandy appeared at the farm with a request for work. The man in charge put him to watering the horses. He went from stall to stall, taking each horse by the halter and leading him to the trough. No one had thought to tell him that Blue Mantle was a savage. The negro entered Blue Mantle's stall, untied him and led him out to the water. One of the English grooms, seeing him coming out of the stall, ran shouting for help. But the stallion followed the negro up to the trough, drank until his thirst was quenched, looked about him complacently as the negro stroked his mane and asked him gently if he wanted more. After a reasonable pause he led the horse back to his stall, tied him at his rack and patted him on the side a moment before he went on to the next stall. The surprise of those Englishmen was great, and they told the man in charge of the 'remarkable happening.' The man was wise enough to send the Englishmen back home, and he put the stupid, soft-voiced negro in charge of Blue Mantle. From that day on there was never any need for a club. Blue Mantle had been vicious only because his keepers had fought him. It is the nature of any man to give combat when he is assailed and so it is with the horse. The horse, like the man, is likewise amenable to good treatment."

"I remember that a man named Creibel, who was a liveryman at Harrisburg, Va., bought a son of Eolus, with which he expected to win some races at the fairs. He used to ride him at exercise himself, and I noticed two or three mornings in succession that the horse came in much excited, bleeding at the mouth, and his breast covered with bloody foam. Creibel said that the horse was a savage and uncontrollable. I told him that I thought the chief trouble was a tender mouth and rough treatment. I advised him to use a smooth bit instead of the one of twisted wire, and to let a negro boy who worked around the stable ride him. He did so, and within six weeks there was not a more gentle horse in Harrisburg. The liveryman sold him to a neighbor of mine, who used him as a hunter and also drove him to a buggy."

The conversation now turned to the care of stallions, and Harry Stanhope, the man who bred Rhoda B., the dam of Orby and Rhodora, the colt and filly with which Richard Croker this year won the English Derby and the Dewhurst Plate, respectively, remarked that Major Daingerfield is not a believer in high fences as inclosures for stallion paddocks.

"That I am not," said the Major. "The horse in his native state is a gregarious animal, and to shut him out of all sight of his kind can serve no good purpose. At Castleton Stud the stallion paddocks are inclosed with double fences, seven feet high, and with three rails and a runner on top. This latter serves as a protection to the horse should he rear up and get his feet over the fence. With the double fences—they set about four feet apart—he cannot get to horses in the next field. We keep the mares in three fields, and they are so arranged that some of the mares are always in sight of the stallions. This does not, as I have heard some people declare, excite the stallions. It has, on the contrary, been my experience that the stallions are more quiet. When Kingston was at La Belle Stud he was kept in a paddock, surrounded by a fence over which he could not see, and when he became the property of Mr. Keene, Eugene Leigh told me that he had never been able to keep him in the paddock such as we have at Castleton. I thought I would try him in one of them, anyhow. I turned him out where he could see other horses, and there he is yet, as quiet as any horse on the place. We have never had the least bit of trouble with him."

REGISTERED HORSES GO FREE.

All of the horses L. Blum has purchased for exportation to Mexico are registered with the Jockey Club. There is a tax of $40 per head on horses going into Mexico unless they are thus registered.

MAGAZINE SUFFERS DEFEAT

CARMAN'S COLT CARRIED OUT ON THE STRETCH TURN AND UNPLACED.

Money Muss and Nagazam Continue Winning—Molesey Defeats Red Leaf—Gemmell's Fast Race.

Oakland, Cal., November 19.—Jockey Knapp was promptly given a license when he applied for it by the California Jockey Club and rode Money Muss, the 8 to 5 favorite, to victory in the second race at Oakland today. The somewhat lukewarm reception accorded the much discussed rider when he appeared on the track was quickly changed to one marked by riotously appreciative applause when he returned to the scales after making good for Money Muss backers, without even having given them a moment's uneasiness during the running of the race. The rejuvenated Corrigan, almost backed off the boards, accounted for the selling affair that came next.

Nagazam, in the last, was the third public choice to score. Aside from this commonplace announcement, Herman Radtke rode the Jennings horse and it was the former crack jockey's first winning mount in a long time.

S. C. Hildreth's Wap, named after W. A. Pinkerton, and a reputed crackerjack in private, was the first favorite to go down to defeat, but with Blondy, which bolted at the start and was left at the post in the fifth, were of the receding variety and their elimination as contenders meant little or no loss to the general public.

It remained for Magazine, in the Alameda Handicap, however, to work havoc with owner and racegoers alike. The crack Carman two-year-old failed to display his true form in this race, though he was carried out on the turn and there were excuses the plenty forthcoming for him.

Next to Meelick in last Saturday's fiasco Magazine was the best backed horse that has started at this meeting. Gemmell, which is a fast horse, repeated in gallant style today, running the distance of five and a half furlongs in 1:06 1/4.

J. A. Bennet of New York captured two races with Green Goods and Molesey. The victory of the last named proved costly, as U. Z. De Arman, laboring under the impression that he was entered below his true value at $1,000, proceeded to bid him up to $2,300 before he stopped. The owner retained Molesey with the customary $5 advance and then retailed by claiming J. O. Keene's Red Leaf, the runner-up, for $1,600.

There was a slight sprinkling of rain during the day. The track was not affected. A large and financially benefited crowd witnessed improved sport. The horses that raced at the recent Butte meeting are sweeping almost everything before them. Jockey James Carroll, who was injured from a fall on the horse Mitre last Saturday, is still unconscious. Hopes are, however, entertained for his recovery.

"Silver Bill" Riley, C. J. Casey and Jockey Roscoe Coleman are recent arrivals from the east. W. O'B. Macdonough has returned from New York. His stallion, Ormondale, will be shortly shipped to Henry T. Oxnard's farm in Virginia, where he will do stud duty. William Cahill wired that he would be in Oakland on Thursday with his string. Big Store was badly cut down in his last race, and will not be raced for several months.

Harry Stover announced today that he would give three race meetings next summer, sixty days at Butte, ten days at Anaconda and eighteen days at Petaluma.

A. G. Blakeley wired Secretary P. W. Treat that he left Omaha today with twelve horses. J. M. Lyons, one of the leading turfites on the coast, nearly died last night from the effects of ptomaine poisoning, but will recover.

BLOODLESS WARFARE AT LEXINGTON.

Lexington, Ky., November 19.—Edward Corrigan and Dr. Arnold Frank came to blows in the post-office this afternoon, but neither was injured. Dr. Frank is a German horseman who came here several months ago and set up an establishment for the handling of driving horses. About six weeks ago he bought a cast-off thoroughbred belonging to Mr. Corrigan from John Mackey. At the time Mr. Corrigan told Frank he had better look the horse over carefully, that he might not like him. Dr. Frank, however, said the horse suited him. Last Sunday Dr. Frank tried to sell the horse to L. Blum, of Mexico. Blum discovered that he had a ringbone. Today Frank met Corrigan and told him that he wanted him to take the horse back. Corrigan declined to. The lie was passed and Frank struck Corrigan. The Master of Hawthorne sent his right to the German's jaw and was about to follow with a left swing when a bystander rushed up and called his attention to the fact that there were ladies present. The two walked away and the scene ended.

LOUISVILLE TO ANNEX RACE TRACKS.

Louisville, Ky., November 19.—The new city council will probably in the near future pass an ordinance whereby both of the race tracks here, Churchill Downs and Douglas Park, will be annexed to the city. What effect this action will have, if taken, on racing here is not known.

SANTA ANITA ENTRIES SWELLING.

Los Angeles, Cal., November 15.—The largest lists of entries to the fourteen stakes which closed Tuesday from among the horsemen now racing at Emeryville, were made by R. F. Carman and S. C. Hildreth. Mr. Carman made upward of seventy-five nominations, and Mr. Hildreth in the neighborhood of sixty and has asked that twenty-one stalls be reserved for him at the new track. Hildreth will then divide his big stable, racing part of it here this winter and the horses will arrive soon after the meeting opens. The stake horses in the string will make special trips here for the running of some of the big stake races and then be returned to Oakland. Four hundred and twenty-one stake nominations have been received from horsemen at Oakland and it is likely that the 880 entries made to the Ascot Park stakes last year will be eclipsed by the new organization's stake list. The 680 stalls already constructed are now deemed wholly inadequate for the horses which will come here and the building of stables containing 200 more stalls is under consideration and will probably be built.

HORSES DEPARTING FROM LEXINGTON

Lexington, Ky., November 19.—R. L. Thomas has ordered two cars for November 24, in which his horses will be shipped from here to Los Angeles. Henry McDaniel will leave New York about the same time with another carload. W. A. Smith has turned out all of his horses and is spending a month at his old home in Scott county. He will go to New Orleans in January. T. C. McDowell is making preparations to ship a carload of racers to New Orleans about December 1. L. Blum will ship fifty horses to New York Friday next. From there they will go by steamer to Mexico. Mr. Blum says he expects to buy over 200 head more at the sales next week.

WILL NOT RACE AT TANFORAN.

The race track at Tanforan will not be used this year for part of the New California Jockey Club meeting, according to San Francisco advices. There is a strong sentiment among the horsemen and public in favor of a short meeting, but nothing will be done this year. President Williams is credited with the statement that the Tanforan track will surely be used for part of the 1908-9 meeting.

JOCKEY NOTTER A ROUGH RIDER.

Keene's Rider of Next Year in Need of a Severe Check.

Washington, D. C., November 17.—Much hot-headed talk resulted from "Joe" Notter's handling of Oraculum in the Columbia Handicap yesterday at Benning. The boy, who on several occasions heretofore has ridden in much the same manner, was seen to distinctly carry out Dolly Spanker on the turn for home, then lay against him with his horse's head pointed diagonally across the track, and seriously bump the other. In spite of all this, Mr. Wilson's gelding recovered and came on, looking all over a winner until he was within fifty yards of the end, when Comedienne beat him out.

Because Comedienne is trained by George Odum, who owns Oraculum, the incidents of the race brought out all the latent bad feeling on a track which needs only moderate provocation to arouse it. The metropolitan race-going public is a patient one, and seldom manifests openly its displeasure. Neither did yesterday's assemblage, made up chiefly of New Yorkers, for though many saw the rough riding, they did not make a demonstration because the aggressor was beaten. But it was when they examined their race cards and saw that Odum trains both the winner and Oraculum, that the aftermath assumed proportions of a scandal. The argument was made that the western custom of coupling in the betting all horses trained by one man, was the fairest to the betting public and should be adopted by the layers and players in the east. The claim was made that Oraculum had clearly knocked Dolly Spanker out of his chance of winning, and hence his stable-trained companion should not be permitted to benefit by it. Not that Odum had planned the rough riding, but that he benefited by it, was the burden of the complaints.

In order to help the Benning meeting, it has long been the custom for well-known trainers to bring on from New York in their cars horses owned by gentlemen who wish to race here, but whose trainers could not without inconvenience leave New York. Thus "Tom" Healey was in charge of Harry Payne Whitney's horses, including Royal Tourist, up to the hour that the stable was ordered re-shipped to New York on account of the death of Mr. Barney, an uncle by marriage of young Mr. Whitney. If this had not occurred, it was a possibility that Healey would have continued to direct the training of Royal Tourist for the Grand Consolation, the most important stake run here, notwithstanding that for his employer, Mr. R. T. Wilson, Jr., Healey also would be training Falcada for the same race. Such incidents as this have been seen here before, but no one ever thought of making a scandal out of the matter because the trainers have faith in each other's honesty.

No one for a moment would charge George Odum with a deliberate plot to order his jockey to foul a contender with one of his horses in order to help the chances of another. Still, the foul took place, and no one regrets the damage done to Mr. Wilson's interests more than the young trainer himself. It would be a bad beginning of his career as a trainer to go before the turf world with such a blot on his reputation.

The real cause of the trouble yesterday was the "win, tie or wrangle" method of Notter, who, as already said in this letter, has more than once ridden just such races on New York tracks. The sooner the stewards here and in New Orleans, where he will ride during the winter, show Notter how dangerous such foul riding is to his employers' interests, the better for the men who will be paying his salary. It would be a costly thing to Mr. Keene, for instance, some day next season, if Notter, who is to ride for him, should be disqualified after just such an incident as that of today.

Miller did much to provoke official action in the season of 1906, before he was finally punished for rough riding and, without doubt, he benefited by the lesson, for in 1907, his offenses in this respect were so few or so unimportant, as to cause no gossip whatever. The same lesson taught to Notter in time to be efficacious, would prevent a lot of trouble, not only for himself, but for his employers.

It is a fact that some of the feuds of the turf owe their origin to the unchecked zeal of noted jockeys resorting to any method to win, in doing which they destroyed the chances of opposing horses. "Tod" Sloan might still be a jockey of note if he had never left England in August of 1900 to ride Ballyhoo Bay in the Futurity and Flatbush Stakes, both of which he won, but in the latter occurred the memorable foul riding in which a Keene colt was so much interfered with that the immediate result was one of the most sensational scenes ever witnessed in or about a stewards' stand, though the auditors were few in number. It was Sloan's zeal which precipitated this, and it may be the fate of Notter to bring about a repetition of the regrettable affair unless the boy is given prompt notice to cease his rough riding.

While the advocacy of coupling in the betting all horses trained by one man may never receive the endorsement of either the Jockey Club or of many horse owners, because of the great injustice it would work in particular instances, there is a way out of the complication which the much maligned trotting turf affords as a precedent. In certain contingencies two trotting horses trained by one man could not start in one event unless one was placed in charge of another trainer ten days before the race. Let something like this be done on the running turf, only extend the time to the morning of the day of the race, or at noon on that day. This will help to minimize the feeling that complicity existed, for it would make the trainer in charge responsible for the condition of the animal that day, the riding orders he might give and other matters which the rules of racing make a trainer responsible for. Then let the jockeys of each horse be held strictly responsible for what they do in a race, and, with vigilant, but well balanced, stewards looking on, there would be little or no fault to be found.

It has sometimes happened that two horses have started in a race trained by one man. One horse would be at a short price and the other at a long price, yet the chances of the latter to win might be really as good as those of the favorite. It would be manifestly unfair to the owner of the long-priced horse to have both coupled in the betting, simply because he chooses to put his horse in the hands of a man in whom he has faith.

On the English turf there are many of the high-class trainers who handle horses for at least a dozen turfmen and frequently start two or more in a race, but there is never any scandal from this perfectly natural and proper privilege.

TEA TRAY'S MERITORIOUS CAREER.

Among the high-class racers of fifteen or twenty years ago was Tea Tray, by Rayon d'Or—Ella T. His first start in 1887, as a two-year-old, was in the Hudson Stakes at Gravesend, where he ran third to King Fish and Guarantee. On the next day of the same meeting he won a purse race in ordinary field. In his next effort he finished fourth in the Bedford Stakes, and then won the Sequence Stakes at Jerome Park a few days later from King Fish, Now or Never and Prince Royal. He won his next two starts, the May Stakes at Gravesend and a purse race at Sheepshead Bay. After this he failed to land a race that year, although he finished second in the Good Bye Stakes at Sheepshead Bay and third in the Autumn Stakes and the Reaper Stakes at the same course in the fall.

Tea Tray took but one race as a three-year-old. After running second to Specialty in the First Special he won the Fort Hamilton Handicap at Gravesend. Although not winning again this season, he finished second or third in several stakes, notably among them the Withers at Jerome Park, running third to Sir Dixon and Prince Royal; third to Raceland in the Emporium Stakes at Sheepshead Bay; third in the Barnegat Stakes to Raceland and Fitz James at Monmouth; second to Prince Royal in the Jerome Stakes at Jerome Park, and third in both the Breckenridge and Dixie Stakes at Baltimore.

The four-year-old career of this gallant son of Rayon d'Or was a grand one, in which he annexed eleven races, many of his achievements being good performances. His first attempt was a victory in a handicap at Gravesend, defeating good horses. Then came two defeats and two wins, the latter two purses at Brighton Beach. Tea Tray's next successful effort was in the Stirrup Cup at Sheepshead Bay, where he won pulling up by eight lengths from Barrister, his solitary opponent. Then came his victories in the Coney Island and Brighton Handicaps at Brighton Beach on successive days. Following these wins came the Harvest Handicap at Monmouth, where he defeated the good horses Tristan, Badge and Hypocrite. September 10, 1889, Tea Tray was started in the fifth and sixth races at Sheepshead Bay, but failed to win either one, although he finished second in the first and ran fifth in the other. Tea Tray won the Mayflower Stakes easily by three lengths from Retrieve, and a handicap at two-mile heats, in which he vanquished his opponents by six lengths in the first heat and eight lengths in the second. His next two efforts were failures, where he finished unplaced in both, the last starts of the year.

Tea Tray started out in 1890 with a defeat in the New York Jockey Club's Handicap at Gravesend by Tenny, Tristan, Badge and others of high class. In the Algeria Handicap at the same track he suffered another setback a few days later. A purse race at Sheepshead Bay, in which he beat Sir Dixon by six lengths, was his next essay. He finished second in the Bay Ridge Handicap, third in the Coney Island Cup to Firenze and Cassius and was twice unplaced before he was victorious again. Four successes in a row wound up his five-year-old racing. One of these, the Monmouth Cup, he captured, beating a grand band of opponents, including Lavinia Belle, Tristan, Prince Royal, Los Angeles and Firenze.

Tea Tray, as a six-year-old, finished third to Tenny and Prince Royal in the New York Jockey Club Handicap, it being his first start of the season. He was not raced again for a month, when he ran in the Suburban, finishing last in a field of ten. Raceland and Masterlode both took his measure in two purse races at Sheepshead Bay, he finishing second on both occasions. At Brighton Beach, on July 7, Tea Tray, Lowlander and St. Luke were pitted against each other in a dash of a mile and an eighth. Tea Tray, with 134 pounds up, and Lowlander carrying 105, ran a dead heat. It was decided to run the race off, the result being Tea Tray first by fifteen lengths. He started twice at Sheepshead Bay in the fall and failed to win, but ran a creditable race when he finished third to Pessara and Now or Never.

Tea Tray won three races at the Brighton Beach meeting and, in his next start, he was beaten a head by Willie L. At the Sheepshead Bay fall meeting Tea Tray was successful in a good field in the Average Stakes and defeated, among others, Reckon and Kingston.

Running third to Monna and Strathmeath in the Labor Day Handicap, unplaced to Sleipner, Lowlander and Rex in a purse race and second to De Muth in the "Old Time Race" of four miles at Sheepshead Bay wound up the career of this good old campaigner.

Following is a record of performances and money won by Tea Tray:

SALVATOR'S MOST DANGEROUS RIVAL.

The Story of Tenny's Illustrious Career in a Time of Racing Giants.

D. T. Pulsifer introduced to turf devotees in 1888 the bay colt Tenny, by Rayon d'Or—Belle of Maywood, well known afterward as the "swayback." His career as a two-year-old was nothing to enthuse over, as he won but two races in seventeen starts. His two victories were in a purse race at Latonia, where he beat a mediocre band at five and a half furlongs in 1:10, and a few days later at the same track he vanquished such high-class racers as Castaway II., winner of the Brooklyn Handicap two years later, Hindocraft and Spokane in a three-quarters dash on a heavy track in 1:17.

As a three-year-old the "swayback" had an enviable record, winning ten of his eighteen starts, finishing second in four, third in two and unplaced in two. Starting at Gravesend May 21, 1889, he was beaten a short head by Joe Lee after leading to the final strides. Then, after a defeat by that good racer and subsequently good sire, Longstreet, he beat Major Domo and other good ones in the Fort Hamilton Handicap at Gravesend and also captured the Volunteer Handicap at Sheepshead Bay. The Realization was the scene of a gallant struggle between Tenny and Salvator, where the latter beat him a nose after a fierce struggle at the end.

Tenny's next essay was at Monmouth and resulted in a victory over such high-class thoroughbreds as Madstone, Badge, Volunteer II., Fitz James and others. The Eatontown Stakes and Choice Stakes at Monmouth, Van Nest and Electric Stakes, and Pelham Bay Handicap at Morris Park, fell to his prowess before he suffered defeat. In the Electric Stakes he disposed of the mighty Hanover, the speedy Geraldine and Madstone, covering the three-quarters of a mile of the Eclipse Course in 1:12. Tenny then succumbed to Volunteer II. at Sheepshead Bay in the Speed Stakes and retrieved himself a few days later by winning the Fulton Stakes from such high-class ones as Senorita, Hindocraft, Come-to-Taw, Longstreet and Eric. The First Special was the scene of a great struggle in which Kingston and Raceland finished in front of Tenny.

The "swayback" coming with a great burst of speed and losing second place by a head. Tenny also finished third in the Second Special, being beaten by Reporter and Los Angeles, Reporter winning by three lengths, Los Angeles a neck in front of Tenny. The last two starts of the year were in the Oakland Stakes, which he won from Badge, Lavinia Belle, Los Angeles and others, and the Tidal Stakes, in which he ran unplaced, both races being at the Morris Park fall meeting.

Starting as a four-year-old, Tenny won his first four races, the first being the New York Jockey Club Handicap at a mile and a quarter with 123 pounds up, running the distance in 2:07 and winning in a canter by three lengths. After this two purse races fell to his credit, then came the Westchester Cup, which he won in a canter by twelve lengths from his solitary opponent, Sorrento, being at 1 to 15 in the betting. The Suburban came next for this gallant son of Rayon d'Or. In this race he had to be content with third place, Salvator and Cassius taking his measure. Such good racers as Strideaway, Raceland, Firenze and Prince Royal finished behind him.

On June 25, 1890, the great match race at a mile and a quarter for $5,000 a side and $5,000 added, was run at Sheepshead Bay between Tenny and Salvator, his old rival. It was truly a battle royal. Salvator came away at the quarter and increased his advantage as they turned into the homestretch. Here Tenny drew up and, under the vigorous handling of "Snapper" Garrison, just failed to get up, and was beaten a nose in one of the most exciting races ever run on the American turf. The time of the race, 2:05, stood as an American record for several years.

Tenny captured the Eatontown Stakes for the second time, defeating that great race mare, Firenze, easily by two lengths at Monmouth August 2. Then Firenze turned the tables and won from Tenny by a neck, running a mile and a half in 2:33. In the Champion Stakes at Monmouth Park Salvator again demonstrated his superiority when he defeated Tenny by four lengths, running the mile and a half in 2:35, both carrying 122 pounds. Tenny then started in a trial against time at a mile at Brighton Beach, which association offered $2,500 if Ten Broeck's record of 1:39½ was beaten. The "swayback" failed in the attempt, making the distance in 1:40½, or one second slower. His last race of the year was for the Labor Day Stakes at Sheepshead Bay, where he was victorious over Firenze, Prince Royal and Rhono.

When a five-year-old Tenny duplicated his feat of the year before by winning the New York Jockey Club Handicap. Twenty horses started in this event, of which the names of Prince Royal, Tea Tray, Banquet, Judge Morrow, Riley, Russell, Castaway II., Santiago and Senorita will be recalled as horses of high class in days gone by. Tristan, carrying 116 pounds to 129 on Tenny, beat him in the Metropolitan Handicap this year by three-quarters of a length. Tristan's time for the mile and an eighth, 1:51½, stood for many years as a record. Tenny's next win was in the Ocean Stakes at Monmouth, where he scored over Kingston, his only opponent. Both carried 124 pounds. Tenny captured two more races this year, the Flight Stakes at Sheepshead Bay and the First Special at Gravesend. The latter he won in a canter by four lengths.

The last year on the turf of this famous little "swayback" was not productive of much glory or money winnings. His only win was in a purse race at Monmouth, where he vanquished Long Beach, the only other starter. He finished second to Kingston in the Eatontown Stakes, which he had won twice before. His last race was for a purse on the opening day of the Gravesend fall meeting, in which he ran unplaced. Then came his retirement to the stud.

The following is the record of Tenny in races run and money earned:

NOTES OF THE TURF.

Forty-three nominations have been made in the Initial Handicap, which will be the feature of the opening day at City Park next Saturday.

Bookmaker E. J. Callahan says he made a record in his line the other day when he laid against all six races and never cashed a ticket, but he only took $1,200.

Ironsides will be sent to the Colt winter quarters after the close of the Washington meeting, but will be sent back to that track early next spring for schooling through the field.

Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas, and Mr. Garrett Wilson of Kentucky, who bought the stallion Stalwart from the late Alex Shields, have bred a number of mares to him and expect to have a good start toward a home-bred stable of their own in a year or two.

Patrons of the Washington Jockey Club must now go to the track by trolley cars. The race train service of the Pennsylvania Railroad has been discontinued, owing to that road removing its terminal to the new union depot, which is more than two miles from the center of the city of Washington.

The track at Oakland is said to be harder than it has been in years and some horsemen are complaining. The best horses at the track will be kept in the stables, they say, until the rains set in unless something is done by the track authorities to soften the going. But horsemen are the worst and most continuous grumblers in the world and would grumble just as much under any and all conditions that could be devised.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

[Communications without names and addresses of senders will not be answered or noticed; nor will any answers be sent by mail.]

T. H. Toronto, Ont. No such horse as John O'Malley being in the race, the bet was a draw.

W., Detroit, Mich. The parlay was void as to Kara because there was no separate place price against him and won as a single place bet on Dolly Spanker.

Henry S., Hot Springs, Ark. Waterboy never won the Suburban, but did win the Suburban Renewal of 1903 and also won the Brighton Handicap of that year. B. loses. The list of Suburban winners as published was accurate.

Cass M., Springfield, Ill. (1) If one backs a single horse of a coupled entry his wager is decided by the running of that horse. (2) In the case mentioned, the show bet would win if there was a separate show price, otherwise it would be a draw. (3) In this case the wager loses. People can easily protect themselves by backing the entry or by specifying a horse to go or no bet.

Eminola, away well, got into nearest pursuit after going a quarter and, in a game finish, almost got up. Umbrella was favored by the going and ran a good race for her. Aiken made up ground and finished gamely. High Jumper closed a big gap steadily. Wilton Lackay showed early speed.

Went to post at 2:21. At post 3 minutes. Start fair. Won easily; second driving; third the same. Omnipotent was always prominent in the running and finally won at the end of a hard drive, in which he was repeatedly bumped by Tenakoe. The latter ran into the lead quickly and set the pace nearly all the way, but was disqualified for fouling the winner. Orfanio closed a huge gap and was best, but was shut off at a critical point by Omnipotent and Tenakoe. Bobbin Around and Mary Holland showed speed, but fired in the stretch drive. The winner was entered for $1,500; no bid.

Went to post at 2:50. At post 3 minutes. Start good. Won easily; second driving; third the same. Hooray, never far from the leaders, came away with a rush in the stretch and won with something left. Higginbotham showed a good turn of speed, but was evidently a trifle short and tired at the end. Weirde Some, away badly, closed a big gap. L'Amour quit after racing well for six furlongs. Yorkist can do better. Samuel H. Harris closed a big gap from a poor send-off and so did D'Arkle. Society Bud showed early speed. The winner was entered for $1,500; no bid.

Went to post at 3:21. At post 2 minutes. Start good. Won easily; second driving; third the same. Rosimiro found the soft going to his liking and opening up a big early lead, was taken wide into good going at the head of the stretch and won without being fully extended. Falcada was under a drive all through the last furlong, but never threatened the winner and appeared to run freely in the footing. Jubilee, outrun early, was closing up at the end. Smoker showed speed in the middle running and will improve.

Went to post at 4:16. At post 1 minute. Start good. Won easily; second the same. Berkeley ran into the lead at once and, showing the most speed all the way, won pulled up. Dolly Spanker ran well and appeared likely to go to the front at the head of the stretch, but tired finally after a game effort. Campaigner showed early speed, but quit badly.

Winner—B. c. by Greenan—Unadaga (trained by A. J. Goldsborough).
Went to post at 1:44. At post 2 minutes. Start good. Won easily; second driving; third the same. Green Goods drew out at the start and, winning all the way, was the best. Uncle Sam, from a striding start, maintained nearest pursuit of the winner throughout and was a game second. San Gil, away poorly, closed a big gap and just failed to get up for second place. Wap suffered seriously at the start, but closed up rapidly and loomed up on the last turn, then tired finally. Silberschwaz showed moderate early speed and probably was short. Cattle was knocked back early and made up some ground. Unadaga showed early speed, but failed to stay.
Scratched—69502 Warden Yell, 115.

71899 SECOND RACE—Futurity Course. (170 feet less than 3-4 mile.) (71817—1:08½—2—99.) $400 added. 4-year-olds and upward. Selling. Net value to winner $400.

TEN LEADING AMERICAN SIRES.

Commando's splendid young representatives have given him the posthumous honor of leading the American sire list of 1907, and the further fame of eclipsing the $249,500 won by the progeny of Himyar in 1893. Obviously his death was a great blow to the American turf, as was the similar early loss of his sire, Domino. But with Peter Pan and Colin to carry on the line, the loss is not without consolation. Of the living sires the Missouri owned Sain is at the head, with a close race between him and Hastings for second place in the sire list of the year, Sain appearing likely to hold his advantage. Both have many representatives in training and racing at the winter tracks, but, barring Glorifier, the best of the Sains appear to outclass Hastings' representatives, and are more likely to increase Sain's advantage over his rival than to permit it to diminish. There is no prospect that any other stallion can menace the positions of Sain and Hastings.

Star Shoot is now fourth and with quite a good representation at New Orleans and in California, should increase the sum to his credit materially, but not enough to advance him above his present position. Ben Strome has done well enough, but owing to the lack of a money winner or two of high grade, is not so well up in the list as in other years. With the retirement of Ballot, Voter is likely to be passed by several now behind him before the year closes. The tables below give accurately all money won by the progeny of the ten stallions now leading their competitors down to the smallest sum and should interest students of breeding. In particular:
